7. New conclusions:

Firstly, the thesis develops and elucidates the concept of "Khanh Hoa Provincial Party Committee's leadership in the implementation of social policies"; clarifies the subject, object, objectives, content, methods, and role of the Khanh Hoa Provincial Party Committee in social policy implementation.

Secondly, the thesis draws lessons from the process of the Khanh Hoa Provincial Party Committee's leadership in the implementation of social policies, particularly the lesson of clearly delineating authority and responsibility; strengthening coordination among forces; and promoting the combined strength of the entire political system and the People's role as active subjects in social policy implementation.

Thirdly, the thesis proposes two breakthrough solutions to meet the requirements of the new context and the current operation of two-tier local government: (1) Focusing leadership on resolving social "bottlenecks," with emphasis on employment, income, and sustainable livelihoods for the People in response to the requirements of economic restructuring and urbanization. (2) Strengthening communication and dialogue, building social consensus, and leading the promotion of digital transformation in social policy implementation.
