

SOCIALIST REPUBLIC OF VIETNAM
Independence - Freedom - Happiness

INFORMATION
ON THE NEW CONTRIBUTIONS OF THE DOCTORAL THESIS

Title: "Promoting the Good Traditions Linked with the Strengths of the People of Lang Son to Develop the Economy and Society in the New Era"

Field: Philosophy

Code: 9 22 90 01

PhD Candidate: Nguyen Huu Tri

Supervisors:

- Associate Prof., Dr. Nguyen Chi Hieu
- Dr. Nguyen Thi Nhu Hue

Training Institution: Academy of Journalism and Communication

New contributions of the thesis:

Firstly, the conclusions drawn from the research results in the thesis have contributed to the theory, the content of basic concepts related to: tradition, good traditions, and the strengths of the people of Lang Son, especially clarifying the concept, subject, content, and methods of promoting the good traditions linked with the strengths of the people of Lang Son to develop the economy and society in the new era.

In particular, the thesis has shown the role and importance of harmonizing and promoting the good traditions of the people of Lang Son with exploiting the potentials and strengths of the people here to effectively serve the process of industrialization - modernization, extensive international integration, and the rapid and sustainable development of the economy and society in the province in the new era.

Secondly, the author of the thesis has surveyed and evaluated the current situation of promoting good traditions linked with the strengths of the people of Lang Son to develop the economy and society in Lang Son province today. Through research, document synthesis, and developing questionnaires, the author surveyed 300 officials, party members, committees, authorities, political organizations, and citizens in Lang Son. Through this, the doctoral candidate accurately evaluated the situation, identified the causes, and the current issues related to promoting the good traditions linked with the strengths of the people of Lang Son to develop the economy and society in the province.

Thirdly, the thesis proposes directions and practical, feasible, and systematic solutions to continue promoting good traditions linked with the strengths of the people of Lang Son to develop the economy and society in Lang Son province, contributing to the economic and social development of the province in the new era. Therefore, the research results of this thesis can also be used as a reference for the construction and formulation of human development strategies, human resource development to serve the economic and social development in the northeastern region in general and Lang Son province in particular in the coming time.

Supervisors:

- Associate Prof., Dr. Nguyen Chi Hieu
- Dr. Nguyen Thi Nhu Hue

PhD Candidate:
Nguyen Huu Tri