

SUMMARY OF NEW CONCLUSIONS OF PHD THESIS

1. Title: Innovation in the Leadership Content and Methods of Party Committees and Party Cells at Public Upper Secondary Schools in the Coastal Provinces of the Red River Delta Today
2. Speciality: Party Building and State Government
3. Classification: 9.31.02.02
4. Name of PhD Student: Duong The Bao
5. Supervisors: 1. Assoc. Prof. Dr. Nguyen Xuan Phong
 2. Dr. Nguyen Thi Thu Thuy
6. Institution: Academy of Journalism and Communication
7. New conclusions:

Firstly, the thesis presents the central concept of the topic: Innovating the content and methods of Party committees and Party cells at public upper secondary schools in the coastal provinces of the Red River Delta refers to the process of positively transforming their leadership content and methods to align with new circumstances and requirements, thereby enhancing their leadership role, effectiveness, and efficiency.

Secondly, the thesis identifies a distinctive practical lesson regarding the innovation of leadership content and methods of Party committees and Party cells at public upper secondary schools in the coastal provinces of the Red River Delta: the unity, cohesion, and determination for innovation among the Party committee as a whole, particularly the Party secretary and the school principal, constitute a crucial factor in successfully innovating leadership content and methods.

Thirdly, the thesis proposes a breakthrough solution for innovating the leadership content and methods of Party committees and Party cells at public upper secondary schools in the coastal provinces of the Red River Delta: comprehensively and synchronously strengthening and renewing organizational and personnel work, identified as the key breakthrough and pivotal measure for enhancing the effectiveness and efficiency of the leadership content and methods of these Party organizations.

Supervisors

PhD Student

Assoc. Prof. Dr. Nguyen Xuan Phong

Dr. Nguyen Thi Thu Thuy

Duong The Bao