INTRODUCTION

1. The urgency of the topic

Deeply aware of the position and role of advocacy work in Party building, political system building and people's life, in recent years, the Hanoi Party Committee in general and the district Party Committees in Hanoi in particular have focused on improving the quality of advocacy work. However, besides the advantages, the quality of advocacy work of the district Party Committees in Hanoi still has some limitations, such as: the work of summarizing practices has not met the requirements of innovation; the implementation of the contents of resolutions, directives and policies of the Party and Party committees at all levels has not been really active, synchronous and regular; The preliminary and final summaries also have formal manifestations. The coordination between sectors, units, "sections" in the ideological and scientific bloc is sometimes ineffective, therefore it has not created a combined strength in advocacy, created unity in perception and fought to criticize deviations, wrong and hostile viewpoints... The quality of advocacy work of the district Party Committees in Hanoi still has some limitations: the implementation of some training programs and methods of some district Party Committees has not met the requirements, is still monotonous and not suitable for each subject, affecting the trust of a part of cadres, Party members and people in the district.

The quality of advocacy work of district party committees in Hanoi city still has urgent issues that need to be resolved, such as: 1) the requirement to strengthen the leadership and direction of the district party committee and the district party committee's standing committee for advocacy work, but the capacity of district party committee members to lead advocacy work is still limited; 2) increasingly high requirements and tasks on the quality of advocacy work, while advocacy work resources are still limited and inadequate; 3) great requirements for the application of scientific and technological advances, information technology, digital transformation into advocacy work, and modernization of advocacy methods of district party committees, while the level and skills in using information technology and modern technical means of leaders and specialized cadres doing advocacy work in some district party committees have not met the requirements; 4) To carry out the task of organizing advocacy activities, including organizing events and celebrating major national holidays, the Capital and districts need to mobilize large resources and funds, but the material, technical and financial resources of the districts are still limited and inadequate; 5) It is required to issue regulations on coordination between organizations and forces in the district political system participating in advocacy activities, creating unity in advocacy activities of district party committees, but there are no general coordination regulations in the entire Hanoi City Party Committee, and there are no specific instructions from the Hanoi City Party Committee, the Hanoi City Party Committee's Advocacy and Mass Mobilization Department.

That reality requires improving the quality of advocacy work of district party committees in Hanoi city to meet the development requirements of the district, the capital, and the country in the new era, the era of the Vietnamese people's rise.

As a leader and party member working in the Hanoi City Political System, based on practical work experience, theoretical knowledge, methodology, research methods, and theoretical thinking acquired during my time as a doctoral student at the Academy of Journalism and Communication, I decided to choose the topic “The quality of advocacy work of Hanoi Districts Party Committee in the current time” as my doctoral thesis in the field of Party Building and State Government.

1.3. GENERAL COMMENTS ON THE RESULTS OF THE AVAILABLE RESEARCH, AND RESEARCH DIRECTIONS OF THE THESIS

1.3.1. General comments on the results of available research

Research works related to ideological work, advocacy work, advocacy cadres and the quality of ideological work, advocacy work of Party committees and organizations at all levels with many different perspectives and approaches, achieved many important theoretical and practical results, including:

Firstly, existing research works have comprehensively and fundamentally mentioned the position, role, tasks, content, and form of ideological work, theory, advocacy, and the team of advocacy cadres.

Secondly, existing research works, especially research results of books, scientific topics, scientific articles have accurately assessed the current situation of ideological work, advocacy work and the quality of ideological work, advocacy work of Party committees and organizations at all levels with specific and accurate data and evidence. Among them, a number of research works have pointed out experiences in ideological work, advocacy work of Party committees and organizations at all levels.

Thirdly, Each research project exploits from different angles and offers different solutions, but all aim at the common goal of improving the quality of ideological work and advocacy work of Party committees and organizations at all levels. Some research projects have initially explained, proposed, and recommended to continue solving the problem not only in terms of methodology and epistemology but also specific recommendations and recommendations in each aspect, in each field to improve the quality of ideological work and advocacy work of Party committees and organizations at all levels.

The research results of the above works have good reference value to carry out the tasks of the thesis; provide a theoretical basis to build the theoretical framework of the thesis; suggest ideas to build solutions to improve the quality of advocacy work of district party committees in Hanoi city.

Besides the scientific values achieved by the above-mentioned published research works, there are still theoretical gaps that the research works have not mentioned, such as: not clarifying the concept, subject, object, and force participating in advocacy work of the district party committee; content, method, role, and characteristics of advocacy work of the district party committee; not mentioning the concept of advocacy quality, not analyzing the factors that determine advocacy quality, and not discussing the criteria for evaluating advocacy quality.

From the results of the overview of published scientific works related to the thesis topic, it shows that currently there is no scientific work that comprehensively and systematically studies the quality of Party advocacy work in general, and the quality of advocacy work of district Party committees in Hanoi in particular. Therefore, the thesis topic is a new research direction, not overlapping with published research works, the doctoral student chooses to approach this research direction.

1.3.2. Research directions of the thesis

Although there have been a number of works mentioning the quality of advocacy work of Party committees and Party organizations at all levels mentioned above, there has not been any work that systematically, in-depth, and comprehensively studies both theoretically and practically the quality of advocacy work of district Party committees in Hanoi city at present. Therefore, I chose this issue as the topic of my doctoral thesis, meeting the requirements of theory and practice, closely linked to the assigned duties and tasks.

The thesis will focus on addressing the following core issues:

Firstly, clarifying the knowledge units directly related to and serving the construction of the theoretical framework of the thesis: research on Hanoi city, districts and district party committees in Hanoi city; analyzing and clarifying the concept, content, method, role and characteristics of advocacy work of district party committees in Hanoi city.

Secondly, build the theoretical framework of the thesis, including: the central concept of the thesis, factors determining the quality of advocacy work of district party committees in Hanoi city and criteria for evaluating the quality of the work.

Thirdly, objectively analyze and evaluate the current state of advocacy work of district party committees in Hanoi city. In particular, the thesis devotes a considerable amount of time to surveying and analyzing the advantages and limitations of the quality of advocacy work of district party committees in Hanoi city; analyzes the causes, clearly identifies the issues raised regarding the quality of advocacy work of district party committees in Hanoi city.

Fourthly, analyze and forecast favorable and unfavorable factors affecting the quality of advocacy work of district party committees in Hanoi city, propose directions and synchronous and feasible solutions, including new solutions, and analyze in more depth breakthrough solutions to improve the quality of advocacy work of district party committees in Hanoi city in the coming time.

Chapter 3

QUALITY OF ADVOCACY WORK OF THE HANOI DISTRICTS PARTY COMMITTEE - CURRENT SITUATION, CAUSES AND PROBLEMS RAISED

3.1. CURRENT SITUATION OF QUALITY OF ADVOCACY WORK OF THE HANOI DISTRICTS PARTY COMMITTEE

3.1.1. Advantages

Firstly, the advocacy work of the district party committees in Hanoi city is carried out relatively fully in all aspects, ensuring regularity, timeliness and effectiveness.

On the basis of closely following the political tasks, leadership and direction of the City Party Committee, District Party Committee, and District Party Committee Standing Committee, in the past time, the District Party Committee's Advocacy Department and grassroots Party Committees have set out directions and tasks for advocacy work for each month, year, quarter, and congress term on implementing comprehensive advocacy work contents in all aspects of work. The work of political theory education, education of the Party's revolutionary traditions, education of national history and district Party Committee history has been promoted, with many innovations, with rich content and forms. In advocacy and agitation work, under the leadership of district Party Committees, Party Committees, Party organizations, cadres and Party members in the entire district Party Committee have carried out many activities with many innovations in content and implementation methods. At the same time, district Party Committees in Hanoi always closely follow the direction of the City Party Committee, proactively direct the development of plans, and effectively organize the implementation of cultural and artistic work; Scientific and educational work; proactively grasp, research, synthesize, and reflect public opinion, thoughts, and moods of cadres, party members, and people on key issues that need to be implemented. The work of summarizing and concluding advocacy work is conducted monthly, annually, or by topic as assigned by the district party committee.

Second, the advocacy work method of the district party committee in Hanoi city is implemented relatively flexibly, creatively, and suitable to the practical situation.

District Party Committees and Standing Committees of District Party Committees in Hanoi promptly issued resolutions, decisions and directions on the implementation of advocacy work contents based on the Party's guidelines and policies, resolutions of the City Party Committee and resolutions of local Party Committees to suit the reality at the grassroots level. At the same time, the District Party Committees and Standing Committees of District Party Committees focused on building regulations and rules for the activities of Party organizations, agencies and public service units in the district operating in the field of advocacy. Promoting the role of state management over advocacy activities of district and ward authorities. Strengthening coordination and promoting the role of the Fatherland Front, socio-political organizations; public service units and people's armed forces in the district to help propagate policies and guidelines in a synchronous manner, creating unity in perception and action. Grassroots Party Committees, especially ward Party Committees, have focused on adding the content of resolutions, directives, conclusions and newly issued regulations to the work program. Methods of political theory education, traditional education; methods of advocacy and agitation; methods of cultural and artistic activities; methods of grasping public opinion; methods of scientific and educational activities are used by Party committees at all levels from district to grassroots in a diverse and flexible manner, suitable to the actual situation and characteristics of the locality. The District Party Committee, the Standing Committee of the District Party Committee, and grassroots Party committees always pay attention to building the organizational apparatus, building and using a team of specialized and non-specialized cadres working in the field of advocacy; focusing on leadership, direction, inspection, and supervision of Party committees at all levels in advocacy work.

Third, the advocacy work of the district party committee in Hanoi city has created positive changes in the ideological awareness, beliefs and political and social activism of cadres, party members and people in the district.

From 2015 to present, the quality of advocacy work of the district party committee in Hanoi city has been increasingly improved when the people of all walks of life have shown their response and acceptance of the contents and methods of conducting advocacy work in each specific activity. Especially in the context of information on mass media and social networks developing rapidly today, the advocacy work of the district party committee in Hanoi city still maintains its role in orienting political ideology and strengthening the trust of the people of all walks of life.

Fourth, the advocacy work of most district party committees in Hanoi city effectively contributes to economic, cultural and social development, ensuring national defense and security in the district.

With the achieved results, the advocacy work has contributed to the development of economy, culture - society, ensuring national defense and security in the district. Thereby, this work has contributed to building the district party committee increasingly strong; cadres, party members, and people trust in the Party's guidelines and policies, the State's policies and laws, and the material and spiritual life of the people is increasingly improved.

3.1.2. Limitations

Firstly, the implementation of some advocacy work contents of some district party committees in Hanoi city still has certain limitations and is not very effective.

Practice also shows that the development and promulgation of policies and orientations on advocacy work in some places are not proactive and timely. In some activities, the organization of advocacy and political ideology education is mainly following the traditional path, lacking many innovations and good practices, not spreading and not really attracting many participants. Cultural and artistic work in some districts still has some limitations. The implementation of the reporting regime on public opinion by some ward party committees sometimes does not ensure the prescribed time; the quality of reports by many collaborators is not high, still heavily formalistic, not reflecting issues of public concern. Some grassroots party committees are not fully aware of the tasks of science and education work, lacking comprehensive direction; the work of inspection and supervision of the implementation of directives, resolutions and policies of the Party and State in the field of science and education has not been carried out regularly. The summary of the implementation of the Party's resolutions and policies is still formal and perfunctory, not going into the substance, not having the depth to discover issues that need to be considered to propose adjustments, amendments, and supplements...

Second, some advocacy methods of some district party committees in Hanoi city have not met requirements, are monotonous and not suitable for each target group.

In practice at district party committees in Hanoi, the method of conducting advocacy work through resolutions, decisions, and directions of the district party committee and the district party committee's Standing Committee is sometimes not proactive and timely. In some localities, attention has not been paid to building regulations and rules for the activities of party organizations, agencies, and public service units operating in the field of advocacy. The role of state management in advocacy activities of district and ward governments has not been promoted. The Fatherland Front, socio-political organizations; public service units and people's armed forces in some districts have not promoted their role in mobilizing union members and members to well implement the Party's guidelines and policies, the State's policies and laws, and local regulations, and actively participate in the work of building a clean and strong government. Promoting the role of grassroots party committees, especially ward party committees, and the role of cadres and party members of the party committee have not achieved the desired results. The staff working in advocacy is still lacking, some are not politically sensitive enough, lack skills, and are weak in professional and technical capacity; the material facilities and equipment for advocacy work do not meet the requirements in the new situation (especially information technology equipment)... The work of inspection, supervision, and evaluation of the implementation of a number of resolutions and directives of the Party in the field of advocacy is sometimes and in some places not regular.

Third, some limitations in the advocacy work of some district party committees affect the trust of a number of cadres, party members and people in the district.

Although the district party committees in Hanoi have closely led and directed the overall advocacy work; however, in addition to the achieved results, the advocacy work of some district party committees still has some limitations and this has affected the trust of cadres, party members and people in the district in the leadership of the Party, the City Party Committee, the District Party Committee, the management of the State, the city government and the district government.

Fourth, the contribution of advocacy work to economic, cultural and social development, national defense and security in some districts has not achieved the desired results, and the material and spiritual life of a part of the people is still difficult.

Although the economy in the districts has a high growth rate and is quite resilient to external impacts, especially during the Covid-19 pandemic, in general, it has not created any "big breakthroughs" and is not commensurate with its potential and strengths. People's lives are still difficult, the situation of unemployment and underemployment that already exists is now increasing due to the migration from the provinces to Hanoi. This also leads to other negative aspects arising, creating economic and social burdens for the districts. The political security, order and social safety situation in some areas and districts still has many potential complex factors.

3.2. CAUSES AND EXPERIENCES

3.2.1. Causes

3.2.1.1. Causes of the Advantages

Firstly, the Party's guidelines and policies, the State's laws related to advocacy activities have been gradually institutionalized and specified into programs and goals, and placed in the plans of the State and all levels of government. Secondly, the district Party Committees in Hanoi have correctly recognized their roles and responsibilities in leading all aspects of advocacy activities. Thirdly, the District Party Committee's Advocacy Departments (now the District Party Committee's Advocacy and Mass Mobilization Departments) in Hanoi have always proactively researched, proposed, and advised the District Party Committees on key issues, developed plans to issue resolutions and topics, organized seminars, discussions, and exchanged experiences on the contents of advocacy activities. Fourthly, the staff doing advocacy work of the district Party Committees in Hanoi have been trained and fostered in professional expertise, political theory, and have skills and methods of advocacy, mobilization, and persuasion. Fifthly, the District Party Committee leads the coordination activities between the People's Council, the People's Committee, the District Party Committee's Advocacy Department, departments, branches, the Fatherland Front and socio-political organizations of the district to achieve increasingly high efficiency.

3.2.1.2. Causes of the Limitations

Firstly, some district committees, especially the cadres in charge of advocacy activities of the district committee, have not fully and correctly understood the position and role of advocacy work. Secondly, the context of globalization, the rapid development of science and technology, including the explosion of social networks, has had a negative impact on advocacy activities. Thirdly, the level of coordination between organizations and forces in the district participating in advocacy work is not high, mainly leaving it to the Advocacy Department of the district committee. Fourthly, the responsibility of some grassroots party organizations and party members for the quality of advocacy activities is still unclear. Fifthly, the work of planning, training and fostering cadres doing advocacy work has not received due attention.

3.2.2. Issues raised

Firstly, there is a contradiction between the requirement to strengthen the leadership and direction of the District Party Committee and the Standing Committee of the District Party Committee in advocacy work while the capacity to lead advocacy work of the District Party Committee members is still limited. Secondly, there is a contradiction between the requirements, tasks, and quality of advocacy work that are increasingly high while the resources for advocacy work are still limited and inadequate. Thirdly, there is a contradiction between the requirement to apply scientific and technological advances, information technology, digital transformation to advocacy work, and modernize the advocacy work methods of the District Party Committee while the level and skills in using information technology and modern technical means of leaders and specialized cadres doing advocacy work in some District Party Committees do not meet the requirements. Fourth, the contradiction between the task of organizing advocacy activities, including organizing events, celebrating major holidays of the country, the capital and districts need to mobilize resources and large budgets while the material, technical and financial resources of the districts are still limited and inadequate. Fifthly, the contradiction between the requirement to issue coordination regulations between organizations and forces in the district's political system participating in advocacy work, creating unity in advocacy activities of district party committees while there is no general coordination regulation in the entire Hanoi Party Committee, and no specific guidance from the Hanoi Party Committee, the Hanoi Party Committee's Advocacy and Mass Mobilization Department.

Chapter 3 summary

Based on the theoretical framework established in chapter 2, the thesis closely follows the 4 criteria for evaluating the quality of advocacy work of district party committees in Hanoi city, evaluating both advantages and limitations, using comments and data in documents of the Hanoi Party Committee, district party committees, district party committees' Advocacy Department, and at the same time using the results of sociological investigation analysis of the thesis topic as arguments and evidence to prove the thesis researcher's comments. At the same time, the thesis analyzed the causes of advantages and limitations and drew 05 issues raised about the quality of advocacy work of district party committees in Hanoi city.

Chapter 4
DIRECTIONS AND SOLUTIONS TO IMPROVE THE QUALITY OF ADVOCACY WORK OF DISTRICT PARTY COMMITTEES IN HANOI CITY IN THE COMING TIME

4.1. FORECASTING IMPACT FACTORS AND DIRECTIONS TO IMPROVE THE QUALITY OF ADVOCACY WORK OF THE HANOI DISTRICTS PARTY COMMITTEE IN THE COMING TIME

4.1.1. Forecasting factors affecting the improvement of the quality of advocacy work of Hanoi Districts Party Committees in the coming time

4.1.1.1. Advantages

Firstly, in the world, “peace, cooperation, and development remain dominant trends, with globalization and international integration continuing to advance,” as countries and peoples unite to form a multipolar world focused on anti-war efforts, anti-terrorism, peace preservation, environmental protection, and disaster and epidemic prevention. Secondly, the remarkable achievements in modern science and technology, particularly the fourth industrial revolution, have had a profound impact on all areas of social life, especially in information, culture, and thought. Thirdly, within the country, the significant achievements made over nearly four decades of reform have positively influenced the people's ideological awareness and strengthened their belief in the cause of socialist construction and the leadership of the Communist Party of Vietnam. Fourthly, under the strong leadership of the Central Executive Committee, with regular and direct involvement from the Politburo, Secretariat, Party Committee, and the people of Hanoi, efforts have been made to build a civilized, modern, prosperous, and beautiful capital. These efforts have led to significant achievements in economic, cultural, and social development, as well as in ensuring national defense, security, order, and political stability. Fifthly, in recent years, the Central Executive Committee, Politburo, Secretariat, and Hanoi Party Committee have issued numerous important directives and resolutions on ideological work, which have supported the development of advocacy efforts by the district party committees.

4.1.1.2. Limitations

Firstly, the global and regional security and political landscape is becoming increasingly complex and unpredictable, presenting numerous potential risks for socio-political instability both regionally and globally. Secondly, while the achievements of the Scientific and Technological Revolution, particularly the Fourth Industrial Revolution, bring positive opportunities for Vietnam to accelerate socio-economic development and international integration, these advancements are also being exploited by hostile forces that oppose the Vietnamese revolution, intensifying their opposition. Thirdly, within the country, challenges such as natural disasters and epidemics have slowed economic growth, causing significant difficulties for workers in terms of livelihoods, jobs, and income. Additionally, the deterioration of political ideology, moral values, and the issues of “self-evolution” and “self-transformation” among some cadres and party members remain complicated. Fourthly, Hanoi's economic, cultural, and social development still falls short in certain areas, not fully reflecting the capital's potential and strengths. Fifthly, the entire Party and the entire political system from the Central to the grassroots level are resolutely implementing Resolution No. 18-NQ/TW, dated October 25, 2017 of the 12th Central Executive Committee "Some issues on continuing to innovate and reorganize the apparatus of the political system to be streamlined and operate effectively and efficiently". Sixthly, the Hanoi Party Committee is actively preparing for the 18th City Party Congress, term 2025-2030, the 14th National Party

Congress, term 2026-2031, which pose many challenges for advocacy work to rise up to meet the requirements and be on par with the task.

4.1.2. Directions for improving the quality of advocacy work of Hanoi Districts Party Committee in the coming time

Committee to propagate and educate to raise awareness and responsibility for officials and party members about the need to improve the quality of public service. advocacy work

All aspects of advocacy work always require the team of full-time advocacy cadres, reporters, and non-professional propagandists to be regularly trained, fostered, and updated with new knowledge, skills, and rich experiences of experienced teachers to improve their professional qualifications, skills, and work skills. Once full-time and non-professional advocacy cadres develop their professional capacity, they will always be confident in performing well the assigned advocacy tasks; awareness and responsibility for the need to improve the quality of advocacy work will become stronger.

4.2.2.2. Directing coordination between party building committees, chaired by the district party committee's advocacy and mass mobilization committee, to effectively carry out all aspects of advocacy work.

To improve the quality of advocacy work of the district party committee, the district party committee must direct close coordination between the district party committee's Advocacy and Mass Mobilization Department and other party building departments: 1) Direct the district party committee's Advocacy and Mass Mobilization Department to advise on the development of regulations on coordination of work between the district party committee's Advocacy and Mass Mobilization Department and relevant agencies and units; 2) Direct coordination between the district party committee's Advocacy and Mass Mobilization Department and the district party committee's organization department in planning, training, fostering, and arranging the use of specialized staff for advocacy work; 3) The District Party Committee's Mass Mobilization Committee merged with the District Party Committee's Advocacy and Education Committee from February 2025. In leading the advocacy work, on the one hand, the District Party Committee directly inspects and supervises the subordinate party organizations and organizations in the Party Committee to implement the policies, resolutions, programs and plans of the City Party Committee and the District Party Committee. On the other hand, the District Party Committee directs the District Party Committee's Advocacy and Mass Mobilization Department to inspect and supervise the subordinate party organizations of the District Party Committee to implement the advocacy programs and plans guided by the District Party Committee's Advocacy and Mass Mobilization Department. Through inspection and supervision, it promptly encourages and motivates agencies and units that do well, reports the results of inspection and supervision so that the District Party Committee can grasp the situation and give policies for handling if any.

4.2.4.3. Focus on training and fostering full-time and part-time staff to do advocacy work.

Firstly, find a source of future advocacy cadres for the district party committee from students studying at universities in the social sciences and humanities. Secondly, for those cadres who have been recruited and selected as a source of advocacy cadres, it is necessary to continue training and fostering. Thirdly, for full-time and part-time cadres who are doing advocacy work, these cadres are required to actively participate in concentrated, short-term training courses on topics appropriate to the assigned advocacy duties and tasks.

CONCLUSIONS

The quality of advocacy work of the district party committee in Hanoi city is the sum of values in leadership, direction, consulting, guidance and organization of advocacy activities, making advocacy work well meet the requirements of the task of building a district party committee strong in politics, ideology, ethics, organization and staff, contributing to improving the material and spiritual life of cadres, party members and people in the district.

In recent years, the district Party Committees in Hanoi have focused on leading the improvement of the quality of advocacy work and have achieved many important results, contributing to the development of the districts, creating a prosperous and beautiful appearance of the capital Hanoi. However, the quality of advocacy work of the district Party Committees in Hanoi still has some limitations and shortcomings that need to be promptly overcome. Based on the assessment of the current status of the quality of advocacy work of the district Party Committees in Hanoi, the thesis points out 5 issues, including: 1) The contradiction between the requirement to strengthen the leadership and direction of the district Party Committee, the Standing Committee of the district Party Committee for advocacy work while the capacity to lead advocacy work of the district Party Committee members is still limited. 2) The contradiction between the increasingly high requirements, tasks, and quality of advocacy work while the resources for advocacy work are still limited and inadequate; 3) The contradiction between the requirements for applying scientific and technological advances, information technology, digital transformation into advocacy work, modernizing advocacy methods of district party committees while the level and skills in using information technology, modern technical means of leaders and specialized cadres doing advocacy work in some district party committees have not met the requirements. 4) The contradiction between the task of organizing advocacy activities, including organizing events, celebrating major holidays of the country, the capital and districts need to mobilize resources, large budget while the material, technical and financial resources of the districts are still limited and inadequate. 5) The contradiction between the requirement to issue coordination regulations between organizations and forces in the district Party Committee participating in advocacy work, creating unity in advocacy activities of district Party Committees while there is no general coordination regulation in the entire Hanoi City Party Committee, and no specific guidance from the Hanoi City Party Committee, the Hanoi City Party Committee's Advocacy and Mass Mobilization Department.

To effectively improve the quality of advocacy work of district party committees in Hanoi in the coming years, it is possible to study and synchronously implement 07 solutions proposed by the thesis: 1) Raise awareness and responsibility of Party committees, Party organizations, cadres, Party members and organizations in the district's political system on the necessity of improving the quality of advocacy work of the district's Party committees. 2) Strengthen the leadership and direction of the district Party Committee on advocacy work. 3) Continue to innovate some contents and methods of advocacy work of the district's Party Committees to suit new conditions. 4) Build a strong district Party Committee advisory body and a team of specialized and non-specialized cadres to do advocacy work, meeting the requirements of improving the quality of advocacy work of the district's Party Committees. 5) Strengthen coordination between district Party Committees, coordination between organizations in the political system and agencies and units in the district to improve the quality of advocacy work of the district's Party Committees. 6) Invest in facilities, technology, and finance for advocacy work. 7) Strengthen the leadership, direction, inspection, and supervision of the Hanoi Party Committee, and the coordination of the City's departments, branches, and organizations in the advocacy work of the district Party Committee./.
